

MORNING APPEAL

Official Paper of Ormsby County

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 5

A Conference Called.

The Chairman of the Grievance Committee of the Locomotive Engineers has called on General Manager Towne and interviewed that gentleman relative to the cut in wages. Mr. Towne suggested that the engineers appoint a delegate from each division of the system to confer with the officials of the road relative to the reduction in wages. The conference will be held at an early day, and it is believed a satisfactory agreement will be reached.

No reduction has been made in the wages of conductors, brakemen or other employees of the road. The cut affects engineers and firemen only.

Rejected Bills.

The bills of the election clerks for meals while counting the vote, were rejected by Auditor Ellis Monday, on the grounds that there was no law authorizing their payment. The Board, however, held that it had been the custom in the State for a quarter of a century to feed the Judges and Inspectors on the best in the market at the expense of the taxpayers, and the bill was accordingly sent back to the Auditor by the Board and the amount was accordingly drawn from a strictly legal standpoint the Auditor's action was correct.

ALL SORTS.

The Strikers ball was largely attended.

It is reported that Mr. Banning will take the Ormsby House.

Mr. W. D. Torreyson has had a relapse and his recovery is doubtful.

The case of Zion vs. the Southern Pacific began in the U. S. Court yesterday.

John Perry and H. Lyons two ex-convicts have been arrested for voting in Virginia City.

Wheat is still advancing, and Charlie Slingerland is holding his crop for the Spring rise.

Owing to a disagreement between the City Council of Spokane, Wash., and the Edison Illuminating Company, the lights have been shut off and the city was in darkness Saturday night.

The New York Sun says that the average waist of a woman is now twenty-four inches in circumference as against nineteen five years ago. This is a considerable increase in growth, and yet the arm of man has kept pace with it.

A great excitement has been caused in San Francisco by Spreckles drawing a check on the Nevada Bank for a million and a half. The last time we drew a check on the same bank for five dollars the clerks went into convulsions and had to hunt Dick Dye and John Mackay up to have us identified. They apologized for the rumpus by saying they thought the check was raised.

THE CAL. JOURNALISTS.

SHALL CARSON ARRANGE TO GIVE THEM A RECEPTION.

While Reno and Virginia City have begun preparations for the visiting journalists, Carson up to date has taken no steps. The APPEAL suggests that on next Saturday evening a public meeting be held at the Court House to appoint a reception committee and set about the work of receiving the journalists while in this city. The APPEAL would offer by way of suggestion that the committee be a joint one of ladies and gentlemen, and that the reception consist of a cold collation at the Opera House, and speeches by the Governor of the State and others who may be called upon. The spread need not cost much. Everybody about town can contribute some delicacy from the kitchen and larder. This lunch can be spread between twelve and one, and the same course can be followed as was adopted by the enterprising people of Auburn when the Eastern press gang reached there three years ago. The ladies of the city cooked and served the breakfast, and the pretty girls of the city waited on the table.

After the lunch all hands can be driven out to the State Prison to see the famous footprints, and can return in time to catch the 5 o'clock train to Virginia City.

Cheap Horses.

People who had an idea that the Horse Show in San Francisco would enhance the price of horses, were disappointed when they read that the prices which thoroughbreds commanded at a recent auction in San Francisco.

The highest price paid for any animal was $500 for El Benton, son of Electioneer and Nellie Benton. The same horse sold for $5,000 three years ago. Glenn Fortune, another son of Electioneer, brought only $130. Theodore Kearney's four-hand beauties were sold for $710, the grey leaders for $400 and Black wheelers $310; Mary B, daughter of Paragon, went for $105 and Minnie B, her sister for $65; Don Figaro and grand looking sons of Whipple's Hambletonian brought $100 and the average price was less than that figure. Bids became so low that the sale was declared off.

THE MESSAGE.

A LONG WINDED DOCUMENT BOILED DOWN.

The annual long winded message of the President is out, and for the benefit of the APPEAL's readers is boiled down.

The President treats of our foreign relations, civil service reform and of army, navy and Indian affairs. He compliments the army upon its efficiency and discipline during the strike last summer, and the report of the Commission appointed to investigate the strike and its causes.

He dwells at length upon the issue of bonds to replenish the gold in the Treasury, and which he admits there is some doubt as to the authority of the Treasury Department to issue bonds he avows his determination to continue issuing them whenever he deems it necessary. He does not intimate that the Secretary of the Treasury has the option of redeeming Treasury notes in gold or silver, as best suits his convenience and the condition of the Treasury, though such is the fact.

He recommends the plan suggested by the Secretary of the Treasury for modifying the banking laws. Absolute divorcement of the Government from the banking business is, in his opinion, the ideal relation of the Government to the circulation of the country. This condition cannot be immediately reached, but the plan suggested by the Secretary is a step in that direction.

The President is not satisfied with the new tariff law. He wants coal and iron on the free list, and, so far as the sugar schedule is concerned, he would be pleased to see every particle of duty on refined sugar stricken out of the tariff law. He argues that if the sugar refining interests, which are now protected, still languish to the extent of closing refineries and discharging thousands of workmen, it would seem to be hopeless to expect to revive them by legislative aid. He evidently believes that the closing of the refineries at this particular time is for the purpose of impressing Congress with the idea that they cannot be run profitably under the present law.

The President, it appears, ignores the silver question except to express the opinion that none of our citizens are willing that the financial obligations of the government should be reduced to a silver basis. He does not seem to think that a large majority of the people do not care whether the financial affairs of the Government are conducted on a gold, silver or paper basis, so long as labor and its products are in demand at fair prices. The average citizen does not deal in gold and he is just as well satisfied with a silver note, redeemable in standard dollars, as with a gold note, redeemable in gold dollars. He knows from sad experience that since the adoption of the gold standard it is extremely difficult for him to get any kind of money. He believes with good reason that if the country was on a silver basis money would be more plentiful, labor and the products of labor would command higher prices and the country would be more prosperous than it has been for years. The President, whose associates and advisors are wedded to the single standard, should not judge the whole country by what they say. They do not comprise a majority of the people and do not express the sentiments of the masses.

There is one faint ray of hope for the silver men in the President's message. He says he fully appreciates the responsibility resting upon Congress for all legislation affecting the interest of the people and assures the representatives of the people that whether in accordance with recommendation made by him or not he shall be glad to co-operate in perfecting any legislation that can add to the prosperity and welfare of the country. If this means that the President has had a new revelation since he vetoed the Bland-Siegniorage bill and does not mean in the future to assume that his judgement is superior to that of a majority of the representatives of the people in Congress there is hope that a free coinage bill may be on the statutes before the 4th of March next. If on the other hand the President means by co-operation with Congress that his opinion must prevail against a majority of the Senate and House the Gold Trust will have its way as there are enough Republicans and Democrats in Congress who will combine to prevent the passage of a silver bill over the President's veto.

THE OLD STORY.

PEOPLE WHO DEAL WITH THE STATE MUST QUOTE SAN FRANCISCO PRICES.

This is about the time of the year when the State of Nevada lays in its supplies for the coming year. The State Board of Printing Commissioners has sent out a circular to stationers in this city which opens as follows:

Bids will be received by the Board of State Printing Commissioners of the State of Nevada, up to and including December 15, 1894, for the furnishing of such stationery as may be required to perform the State printing for the State of Nevada for the two years commencing January 1, 1894, and ending December 31, 1896. Bids to state the price at San Francisco, the State to pay freight on such stationery as may be required to be delivered in Carson City, the stationery to be of the best quality, delivered at such times and in such quantities as the Board may order after December 15, 1894, as near as may be, in the following quantities.

A law passed at the last session of the Legislature provided that all supplies for the State of Nevada should be purchased of merchants doing business in this State, and they were allowed under the provisions of the bill a profit of ten per cent above the San Francisco rates and freight added. The circular cuts them down to no profit at all, and a merchant would be a fool to sell the State goods at the prices they are required to pay in San Francisco. The requirements of this bill practically shut out the Nevada merchants, and evades the law by throwing the business into the hands of the San Francisco dealer. The law has been a dead letter ever since it passed, because there happens to be, unfortunately, no legal penalty attached, but after the next session there will probably be a penalty. The thing is a perfect farce, and the closing paragraph renders it more so. It requires a $5000 dollar bond put up by the Nevada merchant who is debarred from making a profit if he deals with the State. Here is the way it reads:

No bid will be considered unless accompanied by a bond, with two or more sureties, in the sum of Five Thousand ($5,000) Dollars, as required by law. [San Francisco Statutes, Sec. 1896.] Bids to be addressed to the Board of State Printing Commissioners, Carson City, Nevada.
